The Appalachian Center for Economic Networks (ACEnet) is a non-profit organization building the capacity of Appalachian communities to network together for the purpose of creating a dynamic regional economy with sustainable opportunities for all.

Sectors that ACEnet works with are:

FOOD - Regional community kitchen used as a shared facility by food producers. The cycle starts with local food producers, many that also sell at the Athens Farmers market, to ACEnet for production of salsa, pasta sauce and other food items, to the local Kroger superstore that features a large variety of regional and organic foods. ACEnet's regional food branding is called Food We Love.

ART - Art of Ohio.com includes pottery, glass, quilts, hand-painted tiles, jewelry, baskets, paintings, collage, garden art, gift sets, food and more.

WOOD - Furniture, sculpture, wood art, cedar chests, keepsake boxes, functional wood (bowls, cutting boards, rolling pins, platters, vessels, cradles, picture frames and more). Quality craftsmanship that is cherished generation after generation.

ACEnet's services include business incubation, product development, business planning, marketing and distribution, financial assistance, consulting services and ecommerce.

Art of Ohio.com is a retail website dedicated to providing Internet visibility to Ohio artists, especially in Appalachian Ohio. Handcrafted pottery, stained glass, wood, sculptures, quilts and much more can be purchased online for any special occasion or home decor. An economic development tool, Art of Ohio conducts workshops, offers networking and regional exhibit opportunities.

Visitors to our region are encouraged to visit the many art galleries, museums and art shops listed in this directory and to remember Art of Ohio.com when shopping online for unique gifts and home decor.
